FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1916.

At the Recruiting Conference which was held in Dublin yesterday the Lord Lieu tenant and Mr. Redmond renewed their appeals to the Irish farmers. Lord Wimborne laid, stress on a fact which a Germany is concerned no mon-common within ten minutes to all our people. Where Germany is concerned no mon-combatant is sacred. The British Fleet, and the mud-stained line in Flanders which cour young farmers are now invited to strengthen, are the only things that keep the women of Ireland safe from murder and outrage. Mr. Redmond appealed once more to the farmers' self-interest, to their sense of gratitude, and to their sense of the courage in defying the by no means negligible elements of disaffection in the country. He makes no secret of the political motives which help to inspire the monal tenance of the political motives which help to inspire the political motives which help to inspire the resulting that the particular and the principles out of which that they are collecting jam jars and they raised money for suffering Belgians; and now they are collecting jam jars and they raised money for suffering Belgians; and now they are collecting jam jars and they raised money for suffering Belgians; and now they are collecting jam jars and they raised money for suffering Belgians; and now they are collecting jam jars and they raised money for suffering Belgians; and now they are collecting in minutes to sell for the benefit of their ewen troop funds. must be recognised that hitherto the most eloquent appeals have failed, and that the existing methods of recruiting have produced no sensible results. We are still waiting for the full employment of the resources of the Nationalist Party. If every Irish member of Parliament would organise his division for recruiting purposes, engage his chief supporters in the work, and make a personal canvass of his constituents, it is quite certain that

The final settlement of the Lusitania controversy has met with a cold reception in the American Press. The only paper venturing an editorial comment is the New York Herald, which condemns Germany at tempt to use the United States as a catspaw to break the blockade of the Allies, against which it does not dare to send its own warships. It declares that nothing would be more ludicrous than the pose of Germany as the champion of the pose of Germany as the champion of the firedom.

OTTAWA, THURSDAY.

The Commissioner to-day began the investigation of the fire at the Parliament Buildings.

Commissioner Pringle, in opening the proceedings, said the Empire was at war, and the tendency was to suspect the enemy in connection with the fire. There was evidence that in the United States a destructive fire was caused by spreading a special liquid over some papers. "If we have been slumbering," to said, "we should now awake. Otherwise greater dusaster may overtake us."

TO-DAY. (BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.) THE AIR SERVICE. Discussing the latest air raid and the Government's attitude, The Times says: The comment's attitude, The Times says:—Ince Government must by this time be fully aware of the rising tide of feeling on this subject. It is being shown unmistakably throughout the country, often in the most unexpected quarters, and it is not to be dismissed with vague accusations of "panic mongering." There is no sign of panic, but there is a very great deal of quiet, natural indignation at our present inability to defend ourselves against air raids. The public will not like to read that our aircraft rose into the air after the raiders had made their ineffectual attempts to wreak mischief, and had fied back across the sea. They will think, rightly or wrongly, that those responsible ought to have been aware of the approach of the enemy. Their growing indignation is merely accentuated by the feeble suggestions in some quarters, that air raids should be passively endured, and that there is some subtle quality of stoicism in submitting to them rather than endeavouring to prevent them. The people of this country are made of more virile stuff than this negative advice suggests, and we trust that when Parliament meets the Government all be ready with a more vigorous remedy. ernment must by this time be fully aware
